CHRISTMAS CONCERT

The Old Rochester Regional High School students are holding a Christmas Concert on Sunday, December 15, at 2:15. This concert will be held in the Gilbert D. Bristol Auditorium.

LUNCHEON FOR STUDENTS

A luncheon was served to students of Old Rochester Regional High School who earned High Honors and Honors for the first term. Certificates were awarded to each member in this group. Besides the students, the following were in attendance: Mrs. Barbara Macy, Mr. Paul Gibbs and Mr. John Hagen, School Committee members; Mr. Joseph Kunces, Superintendent of Schools; Mr. Donald Gavin, Principal; Mr. Harold Gay, Assistant Principal; and Miss Barbara Crowe, Guidance Director.

Miss Lourdes Duque, a foreign exchange student from the Phillipines, was also present.

SENIOR CLASS TO PRESENT PLAY

Senior Class at Old Rochester Regional High School will present John Kirkpatrick's three-act murder-mystery, Come Away, Death, December 13 and 14, in the Gilbert D. Bristol Memorial Auditorium.

A group of college students find themselves embroiled in the murder of an old pawnbroker. All become amateur sleuths, even to the extent of suspecting one another. Matters get complicated when the murderer strikes again--and again.

An exciting whodunit, Come Away, Death builds to an emotion-shattering climax in a drab, dimly-lit costume shop. The action races all the way with the song, Come Away, Death, from Shakespeare's Twelfth Night supplying the play's leitmotif.

Kathy Bowditch plays Louise Hallman, the feminine lead. Ruth Pare as Clara Wicks and Richard Morgado as George Lyons help her run the Hallman Costume Company. Janice Lawrence, Janet Sackman and Pamela LaPointe are the coeds, Sally, Diane and Patricia; Clark Springgate, Peter Silva and David Baker are their college counterparts, Chet, Nicky and Mark. John Mathews is Tom Henning, a police officer; Esther-Ann Chamberlain is Kate Troy, a woman detention officer turned "super-sleuth", and Ann Apperson is Janet Wicks, Clara's sis-

ROCHESTER BOWLING LEAGUE, DECEMBER 3

Herbs TV, operating at full capacity, surprised Hartley Saw Mill to take 2 points and top spot in the Rochester Bowling League. Maury Gifford's 336 was top performance for Herbs with John Cebula's 346 high for the losers. Eddie Rounseville came through with a 354 as Hartley's Garage whitewashed Dennis Mahoney & Sons. Sherm Fearing contributed a 381 for Mahoney. Hillers Garage upset Lloyds Market 2 to 1 with Ed Leary's 377 pacing the winners and Dick Nolan's 375 tops for Lloyds. Dick Furland chipped in a 347 for the Woodchoppers in their 2 to 1 match with the Knotty Pine Cafe. Bob Jefferson dished up a 369 for the Cafe.

ART CENTER PLAYERS IN DOUBLE FEATURE

The actors of the Marion Art Center presented "The American Dream" and "The Zoo Story" on Friday and Saturday nights. These two plays by Edward Albee represent the difficult ultimate in the contemporary theatrical art. The sharp and penetrating dialogue hacks as cleanly as a butcher's cleaver. The bleached skeleton, thus exposed, stands stark except for the trailing entrails. The actors and actresses of the Art Center are a talented group. The fact that they successfully rolled these bones and came up with any characterization is remarkable. The entire burden in a vehicle of this kind is thrown upon the director and the actors in view of the complete absence of plot and any continuity of dialogue. In "The American Dream" audience interest must be sustained through a five-minute segment in which "Daddy" debates with himself, "Mommy" and "Grandma" over whether or not to open the door in answer to the ringing of the doorbell. When Daddy finally opens that door it is a triumph, a climax of courage and an event. This build up is in preparation for the most poignant line of the play. After the door is swung wide, Mrs. Barker enters and exclaims "Why Am I Here". This thought, repeated at intervals, is a sympathetic bridge between players and play goers. Nobody on stage professes to know the answer. They made the best of things by inviting the guest to take her dress off. She says, "Don't mind if I do" and she does. Just when the action thus promises to pick up, there is considerable controversy over a glass of water and the slip clad Mrs. Barker leaves the stage to draw her own glass of water. In a later sequence, Grandma understandably loses her way while thrashing through a thicket of dialogue. Actually, no one in the audience would have known the difference.

Doubtless, there was a message. Beyond doubt, it was a workout for the skill of the actors and actresses. This trend began when the playwriters started leaving the endings out of their work on the theory that the audience could figure out their own. Now the vacuum extends from beginning to end leaving actors and audience complete freedom.

Included in the cast of The American Dream were Kay Sweeney as Mommy, Wallace Keith as Daddy, Jano Musset as Grandma, Jackie Lenz as Mrs. Barker and Dick Foren as the Young Man. The play was directed by Lawrence Lamarre.

The companion piece, "The Zoo Story" is a conversation between two characters in a park. This piece does do an outstanding job of developing these diverse characters and building the animosity and tension which is the action. David Palamountain plays a decent citizen, Peter, who is reduced to the level of an animal during the course of conversation with Jerry. Ben Lackie masterfully develops the thoroughly obnoxious role of Jerry in the course of a long tirade. Thanks to a friend for the message in this one - "Don't talk to strangers in the park".

This play was directed by Van G. Sauter.

Playwrite Albee takes a dim view of American life. This is only fair. Many of us may take a dim view of playwrite Albee. The weak and hopeless humans of his plays are representative of American life only by the exercise of great imagination and tolerance by American audiences. The Marion Group performed nobly in making the most of this "far out" double vision. It was a most skillful and interesting presentation of the product of Albee's strange world.

Production staff included R. E. Rider, Bill Beardsley, Sr., Ann Collis and Connie Castelli, staging and set design; Bill Beardsley, Jr., lights; Judith Darwell and Thelma Van Stone, prompters; Beverly Rezendes and Lilly Rodeillat, props; Bess Bendall, make-up; and Dorothy Matthews, hair styles.

JUVENILE GRANGE MEETING

Mattapoisett Juvenile Grange will hold its meeting Friday night, December 13th, in the Grange Hall.

Plans for a Christmas Party and tableaux are being made, with a Christmas tree, Santa and exchange of 25¢ gifts. Each boy and girl are to bring in a 25¢ gift suitable for either a boy or girl.

REPUBLICAN TOWN COMMITTEE MEETING

A meeting of the Rochester Republican Town Committee was held on Thursday evening, December 5, in the Rochester Public Library. Those who attended the meeting were Paul Gibbs, chairman; Mrs. Greenwood Hartley, Sr., secretary; Mrs. Henry B. Smith, treasurer; and members Sven Olaussen, Nathan Lawrence, A. Barton Cummins, Joseph Chamberlain and Frederick Underhill. Jesse Metcalf, vice-chairman, was unable to be present.

During the business session it was unanimously voted that the Rochester Committee recommend Russell Makepeace of Marion to the position of State Committeeman. Mr. Makepeace is running for this office which was formerly occupied by Philip M. Boudreau of Osterville.

An invitation was extended to the Republican Town Committee to attend a meeting of the Rochester Woman's Club to hear John R. Wheatley, District Attorney for Plymouth County, who will address the club on Wednesday evening, January 8.

Members voted to have chairman Paul Gibbs, Mrs. Henry B. Smith and Sven Olaussen assist in the promotion of a program on politics of today for the students of Old Rochester Regional High School. It was also voted that Mr. Jesse Metcalf of East Rochester be chairman of registration for new voters in town.

Mrs. Hartley reported that six members of the Rochester Committee had attended the Plymouth County Republican Club Chicken Bake held in August and that sixteen members had attended a dinner to meet Frederic C. Dumaine, Jr., new chairman of the Republican State Committee, and others held at a Middleboro restaurant in September.

The next meeting of the committee will be held on Tuesday evening, January 7, at 7:30 P.M. in the library at which time town affairs will be discussed. It is hoped that all members will try to attend.

OVERSEERS NIGHT AT MATTAPOISETT GRANGE

Mattapoisett Grange held its bi-monthly meeting Thursday night with the worthy master Mildred LeBaron presiding.

Guests of the worthy overseer Otto Kellish were Samuel Stone, overseer of Old Colony South Pomona; Vida Greene of New Bedford, Pauline Maxfield of Fairhaven, Gerald Braley of Acushnet Granges, and Deputy Joseph Bradford of South Middleboro. All spoke briefly.

An agricultural report was given by Otto Kellish, advising that shrubs should be banked with earth so water will run off to prevent freezing.

Ruby Barber, Home and Community Service chairman, reported on the turkey awarded by her committee and plans made to make tray favors for the nursing home. Also the cards sent to shut-ins and ill members of the Grange.

Neil and Rita Sylvia were voted into membership, subject to initiation.

The lecturer's hour was in charge of the host overseer, who showed motion pictures of Bermuda and Bryce Canyon, Utah, and a reel of local pictures including the cookout held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Randall during the summer.

Piano music was by Alton Bailey of Wamsutta Grange.

Birthdays recognized were Mrs. Rebecca Downing and Mrs. Marion Hatton.

VARIETY SHOW HELD IN ROCHESTER

Youthful talent provided a highly entertaining program for the second annual variety show, sponsored by St. Rose of Lima Church, Rochester. Despite a postponement and the cancellation of acts with previous commitments, a large number of people turned out to see the show at Rochester Memorial School. Local and out of town artists performed in a variety of acts, including dancing, acrobats, songs, musical and novelty numbers. Leo Carreau was master of ceremonies. The Rev. Francis J. Greene, pastor of St. Rose of Lima Church, briefly addressed those present and acknowledged all who were responsible for the show.

Tots and teens joined in the opening ensemble to invite their audience to "Hey, Look Me Over". A pint-size goateed "Mitch" conducted an equally youthful group in singing "On Top of Spaghetti". Kay Hanley and her pupils gave their interpretation of a Day at Dancing School. Linda Oliver and Gifford Lawrence were featured with two solos each on the program. Selections chosen by Miss Oliver were "Moon River" and "Motherless Child". Young Lawrence sang "Playmates" and "My Darling Clementine". Two guitar selections, "Macarenas" and "A Rockin and Rollin", were played by Jerry Mendes. Miss Aldora Mendes joined her brother in playing a melodicka and guitar duet with Miss Mendes playing the melodicka. Miss Mendes also entertained with a piano solo.

A song and dance routine was performed by Mary Jane Maura. Miss Maura also took part in a Charleston tap number, also featuring Gloria Zalewski, Rose Mary Neves and Lorine Francis.

A novelty act featured Miss Zalewski, who donned several disguises, to impersonate well known personalities. "Real Hep" was tap danced by Carol Taylor. "Miss New York City" was expressed in a tap routine by Miss Lorna Lizotte. Miss Taylor and Miss Lizotte teamed together in a Cha Cha toe tap. Tiny ladies in old fashioned dresses danced on their toes in a parasol ballet. Nina Machado, Debra Ponte, Ann Margaret Rapoza, Janice Correia, Karen De Freitas, Margaret DeMello and Corinne Doyle were the dancers. A song and dance was performed by tiny Ann Marie DeFreitas.

GRANGE CELEBRATES 50th ANNIVERSARY

Marion Grange celebrated its 50th anniversary at a meeting Wednesday night at the Grange Hall. The meeting opened with a solo sung by Robert Barrow. Thomas Dexter played a saxophone solo in memory of President John F. Kennedy.

Nine members from various Granges were present in the hall with 50-year jewels. John Johnson, Master of the State Grange, presented 50-year jewels to the 4 charter members still living, Lucy Drolett, Arthur Griffin, Rose Pierce and Marjorie Verge.

A poem written by the first secretary of Marion Grange, Ernest Clark, was recited by Mrs. Edna Borden of the executive committee.

jorie Sylvia, Mrs. Kenneth Wood and Mrs. Loren Mosher for the nice job that they did with the Mattapoisett Red Cross in setting up a feeding station for the men that were on duty. Also Captain Edward Sylvia of the Mattapoisett Auxiliary Police and his men for a fine job; also the Water Department and Highway Department and their men; tree warden and his crew; also Captain Greenwood, Captain Barros and Captain Frates of the New Bedford Auxiliary Police and his eight men who came down here to Mattapoisett to help us out in the storm of Saturday, November 30, 1963.

It is nice to know that when help is needed all departments work very good together, and New Bedford C. D. Director Mrs. Ann Fitch, liaison officer Ted Romanski and chief of police Thomas Cawley of New Bedford are ready to help when called on

Mr. Loren H. Mosher.
